

JOIN IGSHPA

Become part of the “ground force.”

Membership means effective promotion of ground source heat pump systems. Our strength is in our people—their experience and their willingness to work together. Join the geothermal “ground force” and become a force in the industry.

The International Ground Source Heat Pump Association:

- Promotes the use of ground source heat pump systems internationally
- Offers continuing geothermal education and training for industry professionals
- Develops and distributes internationally recognized geothermal training materials
- Develops and supports sound industry standards
- Provides a forum for information exchange and discussion

When you join IGSHPA, you join a group of professionals with diverse areas of expertise in the geothermal industry. They are here to exchange information on what works and how to do things better. It's a network you can't get any other way.

All members receive the following:

- Membership ID card & certificate
- A free subscription to Geo Outlook magazine
- Member discounts on conferences and seminars
- Listing as an individual on the IGSHPA Web site and in the Green Book
